

From Monday JANUARY 12, to Monday JANUARY 19, 1767.

L O N D O N,

His Majesty's most gracious speech to both houses of parliament, on Tuesday the 11th day of November, 1766.

MY LORDS, AND GENTLEMEN,

THE high price of wheat, and the defective produce of that grain last harvest, together with the extraordinary demands for the same from foreign parts, have principally determined me to call you thus early together, that I might have the sense of parliament, as soon as conveniently might be, on a matter so important, and particularly affecting the poorer sort of my subjects.

The urgency of the necessity called upon me, in the mean time, to exert my royal authority for the preservation of the public safety, against a growing calamity, which could not admit of delay. I have therefore, my and with the advice of my privy council, laid an embargo on wheat and wheat flour going out of the kingdom, until the advice of parliament could be taken thereupon.

If further provisions of law be requisite or expedient with regard to the dearth of corn, so necessary to the sustenance of the poorer sort, they cannot escape the wisdom of parliament, to which I recommend the due consideration thereof.

At the same time I must with concern take notice, that, notwithstanding my care for my people, a spirit of the most daring insurrection has in divers parts broke forth in violences of the most criminal nature.

Necessary orders have been given for bringing such dangerous offenders to condign punishment, and finally justice; nor shall vigour and vigour on my part be wanting, to restore obedience and reverence to law and government.

I have the satisfaction to inform you, that since I last met you, I have concluded a treaty of commerce with my good sister the Empress of Russia, which is a considerable branch of trade is fixed on a just and solid footing.

It is with pleasure that I also acquaint you, that the marriage between my good brother the king of Denmark, and my sister the Princess Caroline Matilda has been solemnized, and the natural alliance between the two crowns happily strengthened by an additional tie of agreement by a nature.

Gentlemen of the house of commons.

I have ordered the proper estimates for the current service of the year to be laid before you.

Such supplies as you may grant shall be duly applied with the utmost fidelity, and strict regard to the objects for which they are granted.

My Lords and Gentlemen,

The general posture of affairs in Europe affords no occasion to lay any thing new before you upon that head. My purposes are constant and fix'd to maintain, on my part, the public tranquillity inviolate, and to support the dignity of my crown, and the rights of my subjects. The justice and wisdom of the other great powers of Europe leave no room to apprehend any intentions of a contrary nature.

The humble ADDRESS of the Right Honourable the Lords Spiritual and Temporal in parliament assembled.

Most Gracious Sovereign,

WE, your Majesty's most loyal and dutiful subjects, the Lords Spiritual and Temporal, in parliament assembled, beg leave to return your Majesty our unfeigned thanks for your most gracious speech from the throne.

It is with the sincerest satisfaction that we congratulate your Majesty on the addition to your royal family, by the birth of a Princess Royal; ever mindful of that divine blessing to which we owe the preservation of our religion and constitution by the succession of your illustrious house to the throne of these kingdoms, and of the happiness we, together with all your Majesty's subjects, have enjoyed under their most auspicious government.

Permit us also, Sir, to congratulate your Majesty on the solemnization of the marriage of your Majesty's sister the Princess Caroline Matilda, with the king of Denmark, by which the natural alliance between the two crowns receives such additional strength and support.

We acknowledge, with the truest gratitude, the paternal affection and tender concern which your Majesty has shewn for your people, by laying an embargo on wheat and wheat flour, until the sense of parliament could be taken thereon; preventing by this measure the immediate and dangerous consequences, which would have arisen to the public welfare, and more particularly, the ease and comfort of the poorer sort of your subjects, from a scarcity of that grain.

We shall give, on our part, the most earnest attention to the consideration of every means, by which the evils of scarcity may be effectually prevented; anxious to forward the gracious and salutary purposes, which your Majesty constantly manifests, for the welfare of every rank of your subjects. Truly sensible of your Majesty's royal wisdom, in having given the necessary orders for bringing the offenders against the public peace to condign punishment and finally justice, we beg leave to assure your Majesty of our resolution to pursue and maintain measures so indispensably necessary for the firm establishment of riot and licentiousness, and for enforcing that respect and obedience which are due to government.

We gratefully acknowledge the communication it has pleased your Majesty to make to us of a treaty of commerce being concluded with the Empress of Russia. The security given thereby to a considerable branch of trade, by fixing it on a just and solid footing, is a fresh instance of your Majesty's constant care and concern for the commercial interests of these kingdoms.

Animated with the truest sentiments of duty, zeal, and affection, we thankfully receive the just and wise declaration of your Majesty's wisdom, to maintain the public tranquillity, as well as to support the dignity of the crown, and the rights of your people.

His Majesty's most Gracious ANSWER.

My Lords,

THE sense you express of the measures which the safety of my people put me under the necessity of taking, during the reign of my parliament, affords me the highest satisfaction, I rely on your assurances, that you will consider, with attention, the proper means of preventing the evils of scarcity, and the necessary measures for enforcing that obedience and reverence which are due to law and government.

Your approbation of the treaty of commerce which I have concluded with my good sister the Empress of Russia, is extremely agreeable to me; and I receive with particular pleasure, your congratulations on the birth of my daughter the Princess Royal, and the marriage of my sister the Princess Caroline Matilda with my good brother the King of Denmark.

The humble ADDRESS of the house of commons to the KING.

Most Gracious Sovereign,

WE your Majesty's most dutiful and loyal subjects, the commons of Great Britain in parliament assembled, return you Majesty our most humble thanks for your most gracious speech from the throne.

We desire that your Majesty will believe, that we entertain the most grateful sense of the paternal and tender regard your Majesty has shewn for the welfare of your people, by laying an embargo on wheat and wheat flour going out of the kingdom, until your Majesty should have the advice of your parliament on that important subject.

And we beg leave to assure your Majesty, that your faithful commons will not fail, agreeable to your Majesty's recommendation, to take this weighty matter into our most serious consideration, in order, by timely and effectual measures, to pursue the two great ends, which your Majesty's wisdom has pointed out, of providing against the many evils attending a dearth of corn, especially to the poorer sort of your Majesty's subjects; and, at the same time, of suppressing that daring and dangerous spirit of riot, which has of late too generally shewn itself in many parts of this kingdom.

It is with the greatest satisfaction, that we assure your Majesty, of our unfeigned joy, on the safe and happy delivery of her Majesty, and on the birth of a princess; every increase of your Majesty's royal family being a fresh pledge of the future liberty and happiness of your people.

And, animated with the same zeal, we most heartily congratulate your Majesty on the solemnization of the marriage of your Majesty's sister, the Princess Caroline Matilda, with the king of Denmark; by which the union with that ancient and natural ally of your Majesty's crown is strengthened, by a fresh tie of the most endearing kind.

We return your Majesty our very sincere thanks, for your gracious communication, that a treaty of commerce has been lately concluded with the Empress of Russia; which, whilst it gives us hopes of seeing that important branch of our trade continued hereafter on a solid and advantageous footing, is a new proof of your Majesty's constant regard for the true interest of this commercial nation.

It is with the utmost cheerfulness that your Majesty's faithful commons will grant such supplies, as shall be necessary for the service of the year; having the utmost confidence in the assurance your Majesty is pleased to give, that they will be punctually applied to those purposes for which they shall be granted.

We beg your Majesty will permit us to express our highest satisfaction on the present happy establishment of the public tranquillity; and the well-grounded hopes we entertain, from the wisdom of your Majesty's councils, and the influence of your example, that, while your Majesty wisely unites, with the resolution to support the dignity of your crown and the rights of your people, a true zeal for the general peace and happiness of mankind, the same spirit of equity and moderation, which animates your Majesty's conduct, will direct the councils of the other powers of Europe to the like just and salutary views.

His MAJESTY's most gracious ANSWER.

GENTLEMEN,

I return you my most hearty thanks for your loyal and affectionate address. The part you take in the late happy events in my family, completes the satisfaction I receive from them. I see with pleasure the continuance of that zeal and public spirit which I have always experienced in my faithful commons, by your early attention to the several great objects recommended to your consideration, and particularly to the means of providing against the evils attending a scarcity of corn, and for securing the tranquillity of the country. You may depend on my invariable attention to the happiness and prosperity of my kingdom.

"I do not remember to have seen mentioned in any of the public prints, the true cause of a great general's having quitted a certain postulate's service, which was briefly this: His Majesty had issued an order of leave for a certain number of his soldiers to assist the farmers, &c. in getting in their harvest; for which, as they were to be satisfied by their employers, their military pay was ordered to go into the public treasury, and not in the pockets of the officers, as had been usual heretofore in such cases. The officers thinking this a hardship, particularly so soon after having been at some extraordinary expences, as well as having borne extraordinary fatigues during the late war, applied to the great general to represent their case to his Majesty, and to intercede in their behalf, which he kindly undertook; but his application was treated in such a manner as greatly disgusted him, and occasioned his resigning all his military employments. His Majesty, it seems, thought it an improper request to him, to revoke or alter an ordinance which he had issued, though solicited in the most cautious and respectful manner."

other persons are on the left, and on the left what are commonly on the right side; but as to the rest, the symmetry of the vessels and the organization were just as usual. The subject was a woman, who died at the age of thirty-six; and it did not appear that this exception to the laws of nature in the least affected her health, or brought on the distemper which occasioned her death. This very singular account is transmitted by Mr. Rebold, surgeon to the Prince-Bishop of Wurzburg, who was an eye-witness of the fact.

Yesterday died suddenly, at his plantation near Dorchester, Adam Daniel, Esq. And

Last night, near 70 years of age, Mr. Edward Bullard, of this town, always remarkably strong, hearty and cheerful, till within a fortnight of his decease.

In the ship Minerva, Capt. John Barnes, who arrived here last Thursday from London, came 29 passengers, going from hence to East Florida, amongst them Capt. Woolridge with his family, who, we hear, is appointed provost-marshal of that province.

The same day, put into this port, in distress, the sloop Gull, Charles Boulton, master, from Anguilla, bound for Boston. The ship Diana, Isaac Cheesman, master, from London, arrived at Savannah in Georgia, 10 days ago, and brought over Miss Nancy Wright, eldest daughter of his Excellency Governor Wright.

About the same time arrived off St. Augustine, a brig, from England, with Denny Rolle, Esq; (member of parliament) and are new settlers on board for East-Florida.

Mr. TIMOTHY,

HAVE lately observed, with concern, in an account of a public sale of 12 casks of French, and 23 of Carolina Indico, the 28th of August last, by Mr. Aaron Lara, sworn broker in London, that all the French sold at 4s. 5 to 5s. 5 per lb while only one cask of the Carolina (not 47) allowed to be full as good as the best French, obtained no more than 3s. 8 and all the rest sold amazingly low. I say, I have observed this surprising difference with concern.

Because I cannot forbear entertaining a suspicion, that there has been an unfair combination at home amongst the importers of foreign indico, to discourage the cultivation of that valuable tree in his Majesty's colonies—not to say any thing of some purveyors of what is exported from this province.

Because I can with truth, thus publicly aver, that the Carolina Indico which I distinguish as FIRST SORT, properly prepared by the dyer, will yield a superior dye to the very best French; and that, even in the present manner of making it, the difference between the best Carolina and best French, is not so great as is generally supposed.

Because I can with truth, thus publicly aver, that the Carolina Indico which I distinguish as FIRST SORT, properly prepared by the dyer, will yield a superior dye to the very best French; and that, even in the present manner of making it, the difference between the best Carolina and best French, is not so great as is generally supposed.

I repeat that I observe, with concern, the unjust distinction made between CAROLINA and FRENCH Indico; whereby the importers not only gain 25 per cent. to the prejudice of our own manufacture, but even more by shipping ours as French to foreign markets; and the British dyers, who purchase the French, pay from 8 to 10 pence a pound for it more than the difference. And as I have been honoured with an appointment as Surveyor and Inspector General of Indico in this province, (tho' without a salary) I think it my duty, to refuse that valuable branch of our staples from the malign influence of designing men, as far as it lies in my power. To do this effectually, would take up more room than your paper will allow; I shall therefore conclude this letter, with an INSTRUCTION to the DYER; and a wish, that the British parliament may, instead of continuing the present bounty on our indico, lay 1s. a pound duty on all the French, exported from Britain; which would save no less than 15,000 l. per annum to the government, and, at the same time, give sufficient encouragement to cultivate 1,500,000 lb in his Majesty's colonies, for the use of the British manufactures. I am,

Your, and the Public's

Most humble servant,

MOSES LINDO.

MOSES LINDO's manner of preparing Indico, before used, so as to yield a superior dye to the best French; discovered and made public by him, for the benefit of Great-Britain and her colonies.

TO every seven pounds of Carolina Indico, distinguished by him as FIRST SORT, add two pounds of Madder, and six handfulls of Wheat Bran; boil the same together a quarter of an hour, and let it settle: Then decant the clear parts, bray the Indico very fine, and keep it for use.

N. B. SOUTH-CAROLINA,

By the honorable EGERTON LEIGH,
Esq. sole Judge of his Majesty's high Court of Vice Admiralty.

WHEREAS a certain libel was on the tenth day of December last exhibited and filed in this court by Samuel Pleasant, and Samuel Rhoda, of the city of Philadelphia, for recovery of certain sums of money borrowed by one William Earl of Rhode-Island, on the bottom of certain sloop called the industry, her tackle, furniture and apparel, which said William Earl is sole owner of the said sloop.

AND WHEREAS in support of the aforesaid demand an examplicitation of the original bill of bottomry, from some public office in Philadelphia was produced, but unaccompanied with any evidence of a subsisting debt, notwithstanding the said libellers did, by their libel, aver, that the debt sued for is unsatisfied, and that no part thereof is paid, and it appearing to me that the proofs in this cause were insufficient in law for me to decree a condemnation and sale of the said vessel; I did therefore, on mature deliberation, interlocutorily order and adjudge, that the said vessel should remain in the charge and custody of the marshal of this court, and that the libellers shall transmit the original bill of bottomry, or give due proof that the debt demanded is still subsisting and unsatisfied; and also, that the said William Earl, the owner, shall have notice to come in and contest the Merits of the aforesaid libel.

THESE ARE THEREFORE to cite and admonish the said William Earl, the owner of the said sloop industry, to be, and appear before me, at the usual place of judicature, in Charles-Town, within three calendar months from the date hereof, to show cause, (if any they have) why the said vessel should not be condemned agreeable to the prayer of the aforesaid libel.

Vice Admiralty aforesaid, at Charles-Town, this fifth day of January, in the year of our Lord one thousand seven hundred and sixty seven, and in the seventh year
